Hi CB,

As discussed, I just received a call regarding ICA statistics from PCO (Patrick Hénault). He has asked for a breakdown of all of the ICA notifications/applications ever sent to Public Safety Canada. He would like the breakdown to be by sector, similar to the format I had provided to you last week (paper copy I had provided to you).

Recall that during last week's meeting, it was mentioned that such requests should be going to IC. I advised Patrick of this.

Patrick advised that he requires the information by 12pm tomorrow.

Please let me know if there will be any issues with this. Apologies for the short notice, just received a call from him a little while ago indicating that this would be required.

Thanks

Not necessarily, but often. However, in some cases [REDACTED] the investor files an application for review but has doubts whether the investment is covered by the ICA. In these cases, we ask Legal Services to review the facts of the case and make a determination/recommendation regarding the applicability of the net benefit Parts of the ICA to the investment. In many cases this determination hinges upon the definition of a business, Canadian business.

“Canadian business” means a business carried on in Canada that has

- (a) a place of business in Canada,
- (b) an individual or individuals in Canada who are employed or self-employed in connection with the business, and
- (c) assets in Canada used in carrying on the business;

“business” includes any undertaking or enterprise capable of generating revenue and carried on in anticipation of profit;

Hi Edward,

To confirm...

Is a withdrawn application equivalent to the investor cancelling their application (and therefore no longer seeking to complete the investment)?

ICA Protected—Risks re Bankruptcy and Insolvency

A potential consequence of prohibiting the transaction is that it may worsen the financial position of the Canadian business. The Canadian business has indicated that without this transaction it is likely to experience liquidity issues, and may become insolvent or be forced to restructure.
